There are 31,536,000 seconds in a 365 day year, and one trillion divided by 31,536,000 is approximately 31,710. So it looks like that’s where the estimate of over 31,000 years to count to one trillion came from: it’s based on an assumption that a person is counting one number each second. But let’s think about this a little.

How long does it take to count to one trillion? « Republic ...
There are 24 hours in a day so you would count 24X60x60 = $8,6400 in one day. There are 365 days in a year so you would count 24X60x60x365 = $31,536,000 in one year. To find how long it would take to count to a trillion dollars divide 1 trillion by 31,536,000. That is 1,000,000,000,000/31,536,000 = 31,709.79 years.
